

MEDALS

There are several medals given by the Society. The Walter Reed Medal, Clara Southmayd Ludlow Medal and Bailey K. Ashford Medal are given annually. The Ben Kean Medal and the Joseph Augustin LePrince Medal are given sequentially every third year. The Donald Mackay Medal is given annually with recipients chosen in alternating years by the American Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene and the Royal Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene. These awards, as well as Certificates of Recognition, are selected by a committee composed of the immediate three past presidents of the Society. Nominations for these awards may be submitted by any member and should briefly summarize the candidate's qualifications and accomplishments.

BAILEY K. ASHFORD MEDAL—

For distinguished work in tropical medicine. Initially the medal was to go only to workers under the age of 35, but over time the specific upper age limit was gradually increased, and eventually dropped. The medal is awarded every year, and more than one medal may be given.

LUDLOW MEDAL—

This medal is the first to be named after a female icon in tropical medicine. It recognizes honorees for their inspirational and pioneering spirit, whose work represents success despite obstacles and advances the field of tropical medicine. Clara Southmayd Ludlow (1852-1924) was an entomologist with scientific zeal and tenacity who battled the odds of age, gender and skepticism of women in the sciences to advance the understanding of tropical medicine. This medal is awarded annually.
